

JUNIOR CHAMBER DINNER SUCCESS

300 Hear Plans of Civic
Body at Oklahoma Day
Banquet Here.

SERVE OKLAHOMA FOOD

G. E. Wilson of Dallas, Chief
Speaker, Tells What Can Be Done by Young Men.

The junior chamber of commerce firmly established itself as the only organization of Tulsa at the Oklahoma day dinner held at Hotel Tulsa yesterday noon. The dinner was attended by nearly 300 young men who met with members of the City club and other organizations to learn something of the aims of the junior chamber of commerce and hear what had been accomplished by a similar organization at Dallas. All food served at the dinner was confined to Oklahoma products and consisted of tomato soup, Rogers county radishes, Okmulgee county onions, Tulsa county chicken, Tulsa biscuits, salad made from Wagoner county vegetables and Guthrie peach pie a la mode, with potatoes, string beans and other articles from Oklahoma farms. The First National bank quartet furnished music preceding the speakers.

Henry P. Thomas, third vice president of the junior chamber of commerce, presided at the meeting and introduced Judge Ralph Campbell, president of the City club, as the first speaker. Judge Campbell spoke briefly of the many opportunities for young men to be of service to Tulsa and wished the organization "God Speed." He was followed by Mayor-elect T. D. Evans, who congratulated the organization on the splendid showing made, and invited the chamber to co-operate with the municipal government, suggesting that a committee be appointed to confer at regular intervals with the city officials.

George E. Wilson of the Dallas junior chamber of commerce was the principal speaker. Mr. Wilson outlined briefly some of the things a junior chamber of commerce can accomplish, calling attention to the fact that membership in the organization will increase not only the efficiency of the young men but of the city as well. It will teach young men the channels through which they must work to be of the greatest service to the city he explained. At Dallas every committee appointed, whether large or small, has on it a representative of the junior chamber of commerce. Anything that benefits Tulsa will benefit the business men of Tulsa and any young man who will not exert himself to the utmost for his employer does not deserve to be carried on the payroll, he declared.

John Rogers, who spoke as a representative of the junior chamber of commerce, outlined a few of the things the organization hopes to accomplish. The first aim is to educate the young men along civic and industrial lines, he stated, in order that these men as they grow older may be well equipped to take up their work in the senior chamber of commerce and serve that body more efficiently. To advertise Tulsa truthfully is another aim, but before that can be done attention should be given to improved street car service, improved railroad facilities and if deemed advisable efforts would be made to secure a union station. No specific program along these lines has been adopted and it is the plan of the junior organization to investigate before any definite action is taken. Although full reports have not been made it is believed the goal of 500 members was reached yesterday and an active campaign will be launched immediately to increase the membership to 2,500. Dallas has 1,800 members and the Tulsa organization will not be satisfied until it is the largest in the southwest.

Announcement was made that the meeting May 13 will be open to the public and business men are invited to attend and find out for themselves what the junior chamber of commerce is doing.

Attacked by Cannibals
NEWPORT, R. I., May 1.—An attack by ferocious cannibals of large stature, scantily clad, on the party of Dr. A. Hamilton Rice, which is exploring the Amazon region, is described in a letter received here today from Chester Ober, geographer with the expedition. Dr. Rice and Ober killed two cannibals and the rest fled. Mrs. Rice is with the party.

WILLIAM J. FLYNN

Ex-Chief of U. S. Secret Service, in Thrilling Detective and Crook Picture at Lyric Theater Monday.

Is there a community which does not know the name of William J. Flynn, ex-chief of the United States secret service, now with the department of justice. Undoubtedly Flynn's name is one of the best known in the country, and in certain quarters the most feared. From the wealth of his experiences he has selected eight of the most characteristic and exciting episodes, each dealing with a particular type of criminal he was instrumental in running down. These eight, with the assistance of Wilson Mizner, noted dramatist, have been made into two-reel screen plays by Republic Pictures. They depict in entrancing form a series of adventures, the result of protecting the government against crooks, never before disclosed except in official circles. The first of them, "The Silkless Banknote," with Herbert Rawlinson, who stars in all, is to be shown at the Lyric theater next Monday and Tuesday. See one of these detective pictures at the Lyric every Monday and Tuesday for eight weeks.

This is not a serial. Each number is complete in itself in two parts.—Adv.

Close Roadhouses
OKLAHOMA CITY, May 1.—Orders closing two alleged roadhouses located on the outskirts of this city, were issued today by C. E. Johnson, sheriff. The orders followed a raid early today on one of the places.
